

Custodial Operations Policy and Procedures

4.2 Property kept in cell

Policy summary

Certain property items can be issued to inmates and kept in cell. Items of value to the inmate must be registered on the Offender Integrated Management System (OIMS). Items of little value and consumables need not be registered.

Property kept in cells should not exceed the volume of two property tubs or 30kg in weight. However, inmates with pending court matters, or engaged in approved education or art/craft activities, may apply for permission to exceed these limits.

1 Issued property limits and control

1.1 Legal documents

Inmates may only have access to legal documents if they have outstanding court matters and the documents relate directly to those matters.

Wherever possible, inmates should have electronic access to their legal documents, negating the need for paper copies. For further information on electronic access and paper versions refer to COPP 20.8 Inmate access to legal documents and 8.3 Inmate computers.

Inmates may have no more than one storage tub of legal material in their cells, with the rest held in the centre's property store. These can be exchanged on a one-for-one basis.

Legal documents will be stored only until the inmate's court matters/appeals have been finalised. The inmate must be asked to nominate a method of disposal. Legal documents will be stored no longer than three months after all court matters are finalised.

1.2 Religious and cultural items

Approved religious and cultural items are recordable items, according to the limits and procedures specified in COPP section 11.2 Religious and cultural services.

If an inmate is wearing religious headwear on reception, they must remove it for any routine search, but should be allowed to continue to wear it until it can be replaced with a CSNSW approved item supplied by CSI or the chaplain. Some other religious and cultural items are also permitted (refer to COPP 11.2 Religious and cultural services).

1.3 Educational, art, craft, and hobby materials

Educational, art and craft, and hobby materials are not additional to the limits of private property (refer to COPP Section 8.13 Art, craft, hobbies, materials and sales).

However, the OIC of the inmate property store may authorise the use of an additional property storage tub to registered students actively engaged in current studies, after consultation with the most senior Education staff of the centre. Before the Education staff member issues recordable educational items to inmates they must ensure those items are recorded on the inmate's OIMS property record by the property store staff. Non recordable items are listed on the forms:

- Permission to Keep Education, Art & Craft Materials in Cell (Educational) or
- Permission to Keep Art, Craft & Hobby Materials in Cell (Non-Educational).

and the form given to the inmate to store with the materials.

Functional Managers and Activities Officers are responsible for determining the amount of hobby, art/craft material required for inmate recreation activities in cells. Before Activities Officers issue recordable activity items to inmates they must ensure those items are recorded on the inmate's OIMS property record by the property store staff.

All recordable educational, art and craft items that become personal property must be recorded on the OIMS property record. These must be stored in the property tubs of the inmate to whom they are issued when transferred.

The Authorised Officer may agree to store and transfer art and craft/hobby items that do not fit into a standard storage tub, depending on available space, until they can be signed out and collected by family, friends, or a community representative.
