

Court Services Complaints and Other Feedback Policy

Date of issue	25 July 2024
DCJ Managing Complaints and Feedback Policy	The DCJ Managing Complaints and Feedback Policy outlines the principles for managing complaints and feedback about services in the Department of Communities and Justice. If a person has a complaint in relation to a service provided by DCJ, it will be handled by the applicable business unit area in the first instance. There is a tiered approach to managing complaints – if a customer is not satisfied with the initial decision of the business area, they may escalate the complaint or request a review. The ' Court Services Complaints and Other Feedback Policy ' sets out the policy as it relates to the business area, Court Services, within Courts, Tribunals and Service Delivery.
Objective	This policy sets out the approach for managing complaints and other feedback about Court Services. The objective is to improve client satisfaction by managing complaints promptly, fairly and effectively.
Purpose	The purpose of this policy is to ensure that Court Services: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• meets the minimum Department of Communities and Justice standards for handling complaints;• responds as quickly and effectively to resolve complaints as possible; and• utilises the information from complaints and feedback to improve services and implement service improvements.
Scope	This policy applies to all complaints and feedback received about the standard of service, policies, procedures, costs, buildings/facilities, or staff of Court Services. This policy does not apply to complaints about judicial officers (judges or magistrates), the judicial registrar of the District Court or small claims assessors. These complaints are managed through the following avenues: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• A concern about the outcome of a court matter can only be addressed through appellate processes.• A concern about a decision made by a registrar exercising the powers of a court conferred by legislation/judicial direction. Requests for review of such decisions should be made by application, which is determined by a judicial officer.• A complaint about the conduct of a judicial officer can only be addressed through the Judicial Commission of NSW.

- A complaint about the conduct of a small claims assessor or the judicial registrar of the District Court can only be addressed through the Attorney General of NSW.

Policy Statement

- Court Services applies the six whole-of-government commitments to effective complaint handling set out below and the NSW Ombudsman’s three levels of complaint handling (tiered approach).

- Complaints may require escalation or referral to a more appropriate authority in certain circumstances.
- The NSW Ombudsman is excluded from investigating conduct related to courts and court like bodies. Complainants who remain dissatisfied following an internal review of a complaint about a court or court like body should not be directed to escalate the complaint to the NSW Ombudsman.
- Clients can be advised to make enquiries with the Independent Commission Against Corruption or the Law Enforcement Conduct Commission, if appropriate.
- Court Services is committed to responding to resolving complaints in accordance with the Department’s standard service level agreement. Such timeframes include:
 - acknowledging complaints within two business days from receipt.
 - resolution within 20 business days (where possible).
 - informing complainants when there has been an escalation of the complaint or when a timeframe is unable to be met.
- Court Services will aim to ensure that equitable access to the complaint/feedback processes are available to people with a disability and to people who have difficulty speaking and/or understanding English.

- Court Services does accept anonymous complaints and will carry out an investigation of the issues raised where there is enough information provided.

Effective Complaint Handling Commitments

Respectful Treatment	We treat all complainants with courtesy, respect and act with integrity. Complaints and feedback are handled in a fair, objective and unbiased manner. No unfair treatment or detriment will result from having complained.
Information and Accessibility	We make it easy and accessible for complainants to make a complaint and we can help with this process.
Good communication	We promptly acknowledge receipt of a complaint or feedback and provide updates at regular intervals and advise if there are any delays in resolving the complaint.
Taking ownership	The staff who manage complaints are appropriately trained and skilled. The complainant will be advised where the complaint or feedback is transferred to another person or team.
Timeliness	We do our best to deal with complaints in a timely manner. Differing levels of seriousness, urgency and complexity of complaints received are acknowledged and will be taken into consideration in the management of the complaint. Unavoidable delays in dealing with complaints will be communicated to the complainant with reasons as to the delay.
Transparency	All complaints are recorded and reported on as part of a commitment to continuous improvement. Data includes the number of complaints received and finalised, issues raised and improvement action taken.

Tiered approach The tiered approach to complaint handling involves the following levels:

1. Level one: - resolution by frontline staff
2. Level two: - internal review
3. Level three: - external review
