Building on Success

CSNSW services have developed in terms of sophistication and quality over the past 10 years. We have delivered new infrastructure, innovative correctional centre management models, program opportunities for people serving short sentences, increased training and education opportunities for people in custody and increased integration of services across partner agencies.

We have also invested in enhanced training for staff, with the delivery of a new leadership program, five minute intervention training, staff mentoring program and the 'words at work' training.

CSNSW is also leading the way in terms of technology enabled correctional services with the continued roll out of offender tablets, the development of LiVit alcoves and the design and implementation of new offender learning management systems.

The past three years have also presented significant challenges and successes in response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Staff have demonstrated incredible resilience and professionalism in the continued delivery of essential frontline service delivery. Despite the uncertainty and personal risks created by the pandemic, our staff continued to turn up to work each day to contribute to making the community safer.

Addressing Challenges

While we are proud of our successes, we can and must continue to improve the quality of our service delivery and outcomes for the community and the people we work with.

In particular, we need to address the significant challenges presented by persistently high rates of return (reoffending) to CSNSW. Currently, 3 out of 5 people released from prison at the completion of their sentence will return to CSNSW within 2 years and 2 in 5 people who commence a supervised community order will return to CSNSW with a new sentence within 2 years. The high proportion of people on remand in custody and the overrepresentation of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples in custody also present important and significant challenges that we must face.

To address these challenges, we want to work with staff and the people in custody and under supervision to develop new and innovative ways to achieve our vision and mission. To support this approach, we recently surveyed all staff to ask for staff input into how we can design and deliver a world class correctional service. The results of this survey are presented in this document and have been used to inform the strategic priorities and to identify how we can ensure our leaders are creating safe, fair and collaborative work environments.

Safety and Security

Corrective Services has a long and proud history of contributing to making the community safer. The way we do this is two-fold. Firstly, by ensuring offenders sentenced by the courts to be held in custody are removed from the community and housed safely, securely and humanely. Secondly, through accommodating, supervising and providing opportunities for rehabilitation for sentenced offenders, both in custodial and community settings.

Safety and security is at the forefront of all of our decision making. Maintaining security is paramount in ensuring we fulfil our mandate to administer the orders of the courts and ensure the safety of our staff and the people under our supervision. Safety and security always has, and will continue to, underpin each of our day-to-day operations.

Corrective Services NSW has invested significantly in the safety and security of the correctional system over the last 10 years. In 2016 we embarked on the Prison Bed Capacity Program, a $3.8 billion investment in modern, secure and fit for purpose prisons. In 2020 we commenced acquisition and installation of full body x-ray scanners to stop drugs and other contraband from being introduced to our centres. These are but some of the examples of our recent investment in safety and security in our correctional environment.

To contribute to making the community safer, we must not only safely and securely contain offenders in custody and ensure their compliance with court orders in the community, but also contribute to reducing their likelihood to reoffend when they complete their sentence.

Our Strategic Priorities

Priority: One Team

We must work together as one team to achieve our reducing reoffending outcomes.

Priority: Supporting Staff

We will develop a capable, professional, respectful and safe workforce that reflects the community it serves.

Priority: Enhanced Case Management

We will provide offenders with end to end case management to support them to break their cycle of reoffending and successfully reintegrate back into community.

Priority: Closing the Gap

We must close the gap and reduce the overrepresentation of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples in custody.

Priority: Reduce Unnatural Deaths

We must reduce the number of unnatural deaths in custody towards zero.

Priority: Key Performance Indicators

We will implement KPIs to track our progress against our priorities.

Priority: One Team

We must work together as one team to achieve our reducing reoffending outcomes.

What is the one team priority?

- We must work together as one team to achieve our reducing reoffending outcomes.
- This means increased collaboration between existing business units within our organisation and DCJ, as well as increased collaboration between CSNSW and the private centre operators and other partners such as Justice Health to create one system.

How will we achieve this?

- By aligning our processes, policies and systems to operate as one team, we will collectively focus our efforts on our main objective.
- We will enhance the collaboration between our business units to achieve better outcomes for staff and offenders. We will strengthen the alliance between custodial and community to provide consistent and improved support for offenders transitioning from custody into the community
- We will consolidate the oversight regime of the public centres with the arrangements currently in place for the privately managed centres to create a consistent level of performance oversight across all centres.
- We will manage the public and private centres as 'one system' to provide more opportunity for cross-fertilization of ideas between the public and private sectors and to identify innovative practice from the private sector that will benefit and enhance the practices and initiatives of the public sector.

Priority: Supporting Staff

We will develop a capable, professional, respectful and safe workforce that reflects the community it serves.

What is the supporting staff priority?

- We want to develop a capable, professional, respectful and safe workforce that reflects the community it serves.
- Our vision is for the workforce of CSNSW to be appropriately trained, empowered and safe.
- Every single staff member in CSNSW has a meaningful job in achieving our main priority; to reducing reoffending.
- To reduce reoffending, our staff must understand exactly what is expected of them, they must be appropriately trained, and they must be supported and listened to.

How will we achieve this?

- By fostering an environment of trust, respect, and legitimacy in our staff, we will create a rehabilitative environment that will allow us to contribute to reducing reoffending and enhance community safety.
- We will support and develop our people leaders to lead with honesty and integrity, promote and celebrate success and model the ability to admit and learn from mistakes.
- We will support and provide opportunities for our staff to learn new skills and seek professional development.
- We will protect our staff from harm by creating a psychologically and physically safe workplace.

Priority: Enhanced Case Management

We will provide offenders with end to end case management to support them to break their cycle of reoffending and successfully reintegrate back into community.

What is the enhanced case management priority?

- We want to provide offenders with end to end case management to support them break their cycle of reoffending and successfully reintegrate back into their communities as contributing members of society.
- To reduce reoffending, we must provide offenders with appropriate and relevant support when they transition from custody into the community.
- This support should commence when they first enter custody, remain consistent throughout their time in custody and continue into their transition into the community.

How will we achieve this?

- We aim to pilot a program that manages inmates through their journey in custody ensuring they receive the criminogenic programs, vocational training, education and preparation for employment.
- In the community, we want to provide long term support to the inmate and their family as they transition back into the community with employment, housing and wrap around support services.

Priority: Closing the Gap

We must close the gap and reduce the overrepresentation of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples in custody.

What is the closing the gap priority?

- Corrective Services has an important role to play in Closing the Gap between Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and other Australians.
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples make up more than 28% of the NSW prison population and 27% of the offenders in the community supervised by Community Corrections, despite being only 3.4% of the total general population in NSW.
- Our priority to Close the Gap reflects the outcome of target 10 of the National Agreement on Closing the Gap; Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples are not overrepresented in the Criminal Justice System.

How will we achieve this?

- There is an identified need for Corrective Services to co-design a new place-based model for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander offenders with Aboriginal Community Controlled organisations, peoples and communities, focused on Aboriginal worldviews, healing, culture and criminogenic need.
- We have also identified a need to connect offenders with wrap around services to support their transition into the community through post release partnerships.
- We must focus on employing more Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander staff in our organisation, provide professional development pathways and ensure the organisation is a culturally safe workplace.

Priority: Reducing Unnatural Deaths

We must reduce the number of unnatural deaths in custody towards zero.

What is the reducing deaths in custody priority?

- CSNSW has a duty of care for the people in custody and under supervision in the community.
- In 2021-22 there were 9 unnatural deaths in custody.
- We must reduce the number of unnatural deaths in custody towards zero.

How will we achieve this?

- We will fast track ligature point removals in cells and search and trial new technology as an adjunct to the avoidance of deaths in custody.
- We will enhance our existing risk practices.
- We will increase our response to dealing with trauma. We will identify ways to support our staff to enhance our trauma informed practices. We will review our current operations and process to identify areas where we can increase trauma informed processes.
- We will strengthen our alliance with our health partners, the Justice Health and Forensic Mental Health Network.

We will implement KPIs to track our progress against our priorities.

Improving correctional climates and the wellbeing of people in custody and under supervision will also support the achievement of other KPIs, including:

- Reduce reoffending
- Reduce unnatural deaths
- Increase rate of employment in the community

Three measures:

1

Procedural Fairness

Perceptions of procedural fairness among people in custody and under supervision

2
